REPORT

Internship Overview:

Company: The Machine Learning Company

Duration: Three months

Position: Data Science Intern

Projects Undertaken:

Road Traffic Severity Classification:

Objective: The project aimed to develop a machine learning model to predict the severity of road traffic accidents based on various factors such as weather conditions, road type, and time of day.

Tasks: I was involved in data preprocessing, feature engineering, model selection, and evaluation. Additionally, I collaborated with team members to fine-tune the model parameters and optimize performance metrics.

Outcome: The developed model demonstrated promising results in accurately classifying road traffic accidents according to their severity, contributing to potential applications in traffic management and accident prevention.

Wild Blueberry Yield Prediction:

Objective: This project focused on predicting the yield of wild blueberry crops based on environmental factors such as soil quality, temperature, precipitation, and geographical location.

Tasks: I conducted extensive data analysis, feature selection, and model development using machine learning techniques. I also worked on integrating external datasets and implementing data preprocessing pipelines.

PRINCIPAL
PONJESLY COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING
NAGERCOIL 629 003

Outcome: The predictive model successfully forecasted wild blueberry yields with a high degree of accuracy, providing valuable insights for farmers and stakeholders in the agricultural sector.

Site Energy Prediction:

Objective: The objective of this project was to develop a predictive model for estimating energy consumption at various sites based on historical data and environmental factors.

Tasks: I worked on data collection, preprocessing, and feature engineering to prepare the dataset for modeling. I experimented with different machine learning algorithms and evaluated their performance using appropriate evaluation metrics.

Outcome: The developed model demonstrated robust performance in predicting site energy consumption, facilitating informed decision-making and energy management strategies for site operators.
